

REPUBLICAN LEADERS PLAN OFFERING OF A SUBSTITUTE FOR AAA

For Farm Relief Program;
Administration Officials
Dazed by Decision

MAY UNITE BILLS

Possibly May Unite Old Mc-Nary-Haugen Bill With
Export Debuture Plan

By William K. Hutchinson
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—(INS)—While administration officials appeared dazed by the Supreme Court's out-laws of the AAA, Republican leaders today planned a speedy offering of a substitute farm relief program.

The Republican program, probably uniting the old McNary-Haugen "equalization fee" bill with an export de-benture plan, will be laid before the national agriculture conference of farm leaders meeting here. Prior to the sessions, Republican chiefs will discuss farm legislation with the farm leaders.

Democratic spokesmen, including Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, also will confer with the farm leaders. The Republicans, however, will have an advantage in that they will have a definite program ready to offer the farm leaders for their approval. The Democrats in Congress have no such substitute for the AAA ready now and may be unable to evolve one without appearing to be "stealing" the GOP program.

The Senate meanwhile continued in recess while the House prepared to take up the first of the major appropriation bills, which President Roosevelt announced in his budget message would call for an expenditure of $6,752,000,000 during the next fiscal year. Republicans planned to attack the bill on the economy issue, since the President's new budget contemplates another annual deficit in excess of one billion dollars.

Prepare for Execution of Hauptmann, January 17th

By Kenneth T. Downs
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 8.—With grim formality, preparations for the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann at 8 o'clock on the night of Jan. 17, went forward today as his lawyers worked feverishly on their last moves to save him from death.

Some time today Executioner Robert Elliott was to receive the invitation which will bring him to New Jersey State Prison to perform his macabre task that night. The physicians who are to pronounce the Lindbergh baby's murderer dead have been designated. Invitations have been sent to 18 official witnesses, mostly newspapermen.

Meantime both Hauptmann's lawyers and Attorney General David T. Wilentz's staff were working on several fronts preparing for the last legal tilt over Hauptmann's life before the Court of Pardons at 10 a. m. Saturday.

WOMAN HAD MIRACULOUS ESCAPE DURING OCTOBER

Auto Hit by Train; Driver,
Thought Dead, Only Slightly Hurt

VARIED HAPPENINGS

A miraculous escape was recorded in the news of October, 1935. A woman resident of Forest Grove was trapped in her automobile when it stalled on a railroad track. A train carried the machine 70 feet, and the woman was picked up for dead, and taken to a hospital, where she recovered, and proved to be suffering only from shock and lacerations.

The varied news of the month is here presented in brief form:

1st—A hull was noted in the rush for marriage licenses at the Bucks County court house, Doylestown, with the state's new three-day law pertaining to use of marriage licenses after issue, going into effect. A Bristol couple was the first to apply under the new law.

Word was received in Morrisville that the Federal W. P. A. department had approved the application made by Morrisville borough for a grant and loan of $43,636, with which to either improve the filtration plant or install a new water supply by using wells. The Federal government was to provide 45 per cent. of the cost as an outright grant, and the balance was to be a loan.

Pamel Slovso, 57, of Philadelphia, was committed to the Fairview Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Waymatt, Wayne County. The decision grew out of the man's attempt to take the life of his wife, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ludwig, New Buckley street.

George C. Ashton died at the home of his son in Edgely. He had resided in that section all of his life, being engaged in farming.

Willard Shuster, for 10 years principal of the Newtown high school, tendered his resignation at a special meeting of the school board. The position was immediately filled by J. William Barbour, who had been assistant principal. Miss Naomi Beatty was named assistant principal.

2nd—Mrs. Mary E. Ewers, 68, wife of John Ewers, Forest Grove, miraculously escaped death when the motor of her car stalled on the Upper Forest Grove Road crossing of the Reading Railroad at Buckingham Valley station. The car was struck by a northbound train, and the coupe was carried 70 feet. The machine was demolished. Mrs. Ewers was thrown out onto the bank, and a passerby, thinking her dead, took her to the Doylestown Hospital. She revived, and proved to be suffering only from shock, lacerations and contusions.

Upon orders from Pennsylvania Service Commission a hearing of the proposed elimination of the canal bridge on the Lincoln Highway, West of Pennsylvania avenue, Morrisville borough, was held in Morrisville, with officials of the state highway department, P. R. R., and County of Bucks attending.

A pre-roll call meeting of Bucks County Red Cross workers occurred in Doylestown.

Langhorne Sorosis opened its meetings for the season.

Announcement was made that Paul V. Forster, Bristol, and George Knoll, Andalusia, had accepted the sectional chairmanships for their respective

This Is Jackson Day: Where Are the Jacksonian Democrats?

(New York American, January 8, 1935)

When the Democrats of the nation meet today to honor the memory of President Andrew Jackson, the hero of New Orleans, it might not be amiss to consult one another as to just WHAT KIND of Democrats they are.

There are political leaders today parading as Democrats who have no more right to that label than Lenin had to call himself an individualist.

The country has had several famous Democrats in the White House, particularly Jefferson, Jackson, Madison, Monroe, Polk and Cleveland.

The Democracy of these great Presidents was diametrically opposed to the brand of "Democracy" that is on view today in Washington.

These truly Democratic Presidents stood four-square on all fundamental Democratic principles: INDIVIDUAL LIBERTY, STATE RIGHTS, TAXATION FOR REVENUE ONLY, RIGID ECONOMIES in public expenditures and NO FOREIGN ALLIANCES OR ENTANGLEMENTS.

PRESIDENT ANDREW JACKSON, who is being toasted today, had this to say on July 10, 1832, and it should be learned by heart by those Democrats who throw platform pledges into the waste-basket:

"NOR IS OUR GOVERNMENT TO BE MAINTAINED OR OUR UNION PRESERVED BY INVASION OF THE RIGHTS AND POWERS OF THE SEVERAL STATES. IN THUS ATTEMPTING TO MAKE OUR GENERAL GOVERNMENT STRONG WE MAKE IT WEAK. ITS TRUE STRENGTH CONSISTS IN LEAVING INDIVIDUALS AND STATES AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE TO THEMSELVES."

When Jackson was elected for the second term in 1832 he DID NOT REPUDIATE these State rights pledges, as ANOTHER KIND OF DEMOCRAT did one hundred years later.

In his eighth Annual Message to Congress on December 5, 1836, Jackson had this to say, which is also worth memorizing today:

"THERE IS NO SUCH PROVISION AS WOULD AUTHORIZE CONGRESS TO COLLECT TOGETHER THE PROPERTY OF THE COUNTRY, UNDER THE NAME OF REVENUE, FOR THE PURPOSE OF DIVIDING IT EQUALLY OR UNEQUALLY AMONG THE STATES OR THE PEOPLE. IT IS NOT PROBABLE THAT SUCH AN IDEA EVER OCCURRED TO THE STATES WHEN THEY ADOPTED THE CONSTITUTION."

Here are the profoundly vital doctrines of fundamental Americanism and genuine democracy—preservation of individual liberty, of State rights and of property rights—that the so-called Democrats who are in power in Washington have totally repudiated.

ANDREW JACKSON was a man of many inconsistencies and vagaries. He was hard-headed and impulsive by turns. He was indiscreet and made enemies easily.

But through it all there was one star he followed with unswerving devotion, and that was the star of JEFFERSONIAN DEMOCRACY.

It is this star that it behooves the Democracy of the nation to follow on Jackson Day AND HENCEFORTH instead of the crazy comets of Tugwellian revolutionary Socialism.

MORRISVILLE ENDS YEAR WITH BALANCE OF $5,000

Expenditures Fall $160.50
Under What Was Set Up
In the Budget

LIST SUMS EXPENDED

MORRISVILLE, Jan. 8.—Common Council closed the year 1935 with a cash balance in the general borough account of $5,000, as predicted by the Finance Committee and Borough Engineer Harry H. Lee, Jr. The actual balance was $5,018.82, according to a report just issued by Mr. Lee and Borough Treasurer Watson J. Simons. The borough, which has for the past two years been conducted on the budgetary central basis, also lived within the budget, in fact $160.50 less than the amount set up in the budget adopted last January.

The balance in the water works account also shows a healthy condition as $11,828.22 is shown in that department as the balance on December 31. The Sinking Fund had a balance on the same date of $9,773.13 and the fire tax account had a balance of $1,147.40.

In the Street Department where a vast program of permanent improvements was carried out, that committee lived within the amount set forth in the budget. $18,935 was set aside while the amount expended totaled $18,336.55, or a saving of about $600. In the police department the budget was exceeded by about $500 but this was caused by the adding of additional police protection for part of the year. The administrative department also showed about $300 over the amount set up but in the miscellaneous department there was a saving of about $400.

The total budget expended was $38,249.50, while the amount set up in the budget last January was $38,410. The amount expended in the miscellaneous department was $11,164.29; in the administrative department, $4,770.90; police department, $2,977.76; and street department, $18,336.55.

Escapes Serious Burns As His Clothing Ignites

YARDLEY, Jan. 8.—Arthur MacDonnell, Canal street, escaped serious injuries early yesterday morning when his clothing became ignited while fixing his heater at about 12:30. MacDonnell was burned about the face and head, but was able to extinguish his own clothing by use of water in the kitchen, after rushing from the cellar. MacDonnell, accustomed to burning coke, transferred to coal, heaping the fire box of the pipeless heater to the top with the fuel, then closed all the doors. Before retiring for the night, he made a trip to the cellar to bank the fire for the night. When he opened the door, flames leaped forth and seared his face and singed his hair. SHUNNING OPPORTUNITY

If it is free people will fight for the most worthless trinket, but a majority of them take advantage of the opportunity of a free education only as long as compulsory attendance laws leave them no alternative. Free schools belong to those heritages which cease to be cherished once they become a fact.

Free education is virtually universal in the United States, a few isolated, sparsely settled and impoverished regions being the only exceptions. Any boy or girl with the determination to know can have a high school and even a college education. Within the reach of all yet how few reach out for them!

Take any hundred children finishing the fifth grade in grammar school. How many will complete their education? United States bureau of education statistics show that only 83 will finish the sixth grade, 71 the seventh, 63 the eighth, 34 the first year of high school, 24 the second year, 18 the third year and 13 will graduate.

Of the 13 who win high school diplomas only seven will complete their first year in college, five their second year, three their third year and two their fourth or last year.

Thirteen per cent. of the country's young manhood and womanhood in this day of enlightenment and universal education have a high school education and only two per cent. possess college or university diplomas. Hardly a record of which a country which boasts of its educational opportunities can be proud.

How do those scoffers at the advantages of an education reconcile these figures with their pet lament that the trouble with America is that the high schools and colleges have made everybody a white-collar-job hunter? The real trouble is that many young men refuse to let the schools take them out of the ranks of the white-collar-job hunters and place them in the ranks of the white-collar-job holders.

STARTING EDUCATION

Between two prominent educators there has come to open controversy that persistent difference of opinion as to the ideal age at which the child should begin systematic schooling. This learned debate will decide nothing except emphasize the best arguments of both sides.

A New York professor, Dr. David Snedden, is of the opinion that a child of good antecedents and environments may be as well off at home as in school until the age of nine or 10. Miss Julia Wade Abbott, director of kindergarten education in Philadelphia, takes the opposite view that children cannot be sent to school too soon, if for nothing more than the early social training involved.

Generalities do not hold in such a discussion. What is best for one child, product of one kind of a home, may be the worst possible thing that could happen to another child, the product of a different sort of home. Under certain conditions, where parental responsibilities are not shirked and a salutary environment is maintained, the welfare of the child might better be served by delaying its school entrance three or four years. But under a different set of conditions the child cannot be sent to school too soon.

Aren't we going to have no potato control now?

Cleopatra's nose
---and yours!

If Cleopatra's nose had been a little longer, we are told, the history of the world would probably have been very different . . . such is the power of a lady's face!

In those days, beauty aids were matters of trial and error. Since then science has taught us many things about hair, eyes, teeth, nails, complexion . . . figure. Almost all the things that really count in a woman's appearance she can control, herself. And a self-made beauty, to our way of thinking, has as much to her credit as a self-made industrial leader.

Examine your own complexion today. Could it be better? Is your hair as soft and lustrous, your teeth as white, your eyes as shining as they might be? Have you made the most of every possibility? If the answer must be "not quite," do take the matter in hand . . . this very day.

For every woman deserves to be as lovely as she can. And a hundred advertisements are waiting to show you how! So—read the advertisements in this newspaper—they contain information you should have.

there that day, the paper said. The last visitor had been there until 8:30, she said. The call had come to the police at 10:45. If the person who made the call had just arrived on the 10:43 boat, and if this person were the murderer, then Miss Sinclair must have been killed not later than 9:40 p. m.

"And to think," I almost moaned out loud, "that I was there yesterday afternoon and she was alive and happy!"

"You were there!" exclaimed Mother.

"Yes. I was working after school in the office." (I took a course in typewriting, and our principal made me an assistant in the office for an hour after school.) "Mr. Perkins wanted some reports ready in time for his superintendent's meeting at 4:00 o'clock. I only had a half hour to finish them. I had done the typing but I had to fill in each copy with some figures. Just as I was hurrying the most, my pen broke—can I have another, Dad?"

Dad just nodded and hurried on. "I tried to use a regular pen, but the darn—the mean thing wouldn't work. I only had ten minutes and I was almost ready to cry. Just then Miss Sinclair came in to leave her absence report, and she asked me what the trouble was. I told her. She laughed and said, 'Here, youngster, take my pen. Bring it back to me when you are through with it, and be sure you take good care of it, because I never use any other pen. It's sort of a pet of mine.'"

"So you used her pen?" asked Dad.

"Yes. I was a little late after all. By the time I was ready to go, she had left the building. So Dicky—he is my boy friend—took me out to her apartment and I returned the pen to her."

As I told the story to my parents, it seemed to me that I could see her, small and lively and gay. The kids were all pretty fond of her, more fond of her than the other teachers were. She was about 25, I imagine, almost as short as I am, with reddish hair and brilliant green eyes, and she had marvelous clothes. I think myself the other teachers were jealous of her. Her family had evidently been wealthy once; she had a different background from the rest of them. She had even studied French in a convent in Switzerland. She was friendly with the students, too, a little too friendly, some of us thought at heart. A young teacher has to be careful about that; I know, some of the boys had crushes on her.

She lived alone in a four-room apartment, another thing which most of the teachers thought funny, for if they didn't live with their families, they lived with one or two other teachers. A couple of them lived across the hall from Miss Sinclair. I had seen them the day before.

I was almost crying by the time Dicky hooked his horn as I told my folks about the last time I had seen her. He was all agog about it, of course, and he wondered if we would be questioned about our visit

FASHION PARADE

By Orry-Kelly

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Nothing like a big party, at least out here in Hollywood, to point the current fashion trend. And so it was that an elaborate pre-Christmas cocktail soiree, 'other day in the Knickerbocker's Lido Room, did much to crystallize the winter daytime mode.

That new slashed-to-the-waist idea, seen first in evening gowns and bathing suits, was introduced by Glenda Farrell on a short, full-gathered afternoon dress. Styled in black crepe, with nary an ornament, Glenda's frock featured short sleeves, high, round, collarless neckline, and the bodice slashed from neck to belt.

Sables with suits seemed to be supplanting the perennial gray fox. Jeanette MacDonald wearing hers with a brown slit, while Marguerite Churchill, ditto in gray, also sported a hat trimmed with vegetables, completing the "combination salad" even to a tiny head of lettuce!

Back from England, tall, slender Jean Muir was in a bronzy metal cloth tunic with unusual caubuchon buttons set in antique gold, posed over a long black skirt. Patricia Ellis, also, wore the tunic style, hers being silver cloth, with low-cut square neck and long, tight sleeves, posed again, over black. And Pat's blonde hair was combed sleekly back into a short bob, with the merest suggestion of a shadow wave, while Jean's was piled high in tiny ringlets.

Marie Wilson, dainty comedienne, introduced something new by wearing a bouffant pink chiffon blouse, with frilly puffed sleeves, over a navy blue suit-skirt, finishing the attractive ensemble with a big black picture hat and black patent leather pumps.

Kay Linaker set off her dark beauty with a red dress and hat of costume velvet, both draped, and a gray squirrel coat gave pleasing contrast. In different mood, Paula Stone was old-fashioned, her red hair done in hand-brushed curls caught into a black velvet ribbon, and her long, black crepe gown not only buttoning all the way up the back to a higher choker neckline, but showing a distinct bustle effect.

And then—just because it was Hollywood—Fred Stone showed up as an old mountaineer, Dick Foran as a frontiersman, in a leather suit with fringe, and Jackie Cooper wore overalls. All picture costumes, of course, since they came direct from sets—but with the men vying for honors as attention-getters what good does it do the gals to dress up so fine—I ask you?

Councils of 3 Boroughs Reorganize for 2 Years

ary I. Council asked him to reconsider his refusal to serve as street commissioner, but when it was learned his decision was definite, William Rothenberger was appointed to succeed him. Rothenberger's appointment is subject to Council's approval.

Only a few bills were carried over from 1935 and therefore there was only a short session prior to the reorganization of Council. Burgess J. A. Kooker presided until Irvin Hartman was re-elected president for his second term of two years. Burgess Kooker also administered the oath of office to Councilmen William Heinrichs, Herman F. Winzer and William Taylor. These councilmen were re-elected last November.

Other officers, all re-elected by acclamation Monday, included the vice-president, William S. Schlichter; secretary, C. R. Wimer; solicitor, Mark Thatcher; superintendent of water works, Andrew Schommer; treasurer, Frank S. Jackson and chief of police, Frank Hallman. During the evening Councilman Jackson was appointed a member of the Sellersville Park Commission for a term of five years.

With Burgess Harleigh M. Apple in charge, four members of Council took the oath of office at the re-organization meeting of Perkasio Borough Council. Three of them were re-elected last November and one had never before served as a member of Council. The hold-overs were Roy Benner, Herman Fluck and Claude Benfield, and the new one was Harold Price, who succeeded Council's only Republican member, Clarence Groff.

Following the installation Roy Benner, who served as president of Council last year, stated that he did not again care to serve in this capacity, and he nominated Claude Benfield, who was elected without opposition. Councilman Benner was elected vice-president.

Secretary, treasurer and street commissioner, all non-members of Council, were re-elected and their salaries were fixed. They will receive the same as last year. Phares Bader was named secretary at a salary of $300 a year; Walter K. Berry, treasurer, at a salary of $100 a year, and John Aftlerbach, street commissioner, at a salary of $25. Burgess Harleigh M. Apple also had been nominated to serve as secretary of Council, but he lost out to Mr. Bader.

Before proceeding with the re-organization announcement was made that gross sales at the municipally owned electric light plant during December had amounted to $7213.22, that the expenditures totaled $5191.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

A COLD spell is quickly felt in the higher prices of perishable foods, particularly butter, eggs, vegetables and fruits. As soon as supplies become normal prices drop back. Since increasing supplies of eggs are the rule at this season, higher egg prices are bound to be temporary.

Market prices invite the housewife to serve plenty of salads, for lettuce is cheap. Several varieties of greens are also reasonable and inexpensive. Meat and poultry prices tend to be firm but the simpler and less expensive cuts have additional appeal after rich holiday fare.

Apples and the citrus fruits are the chief values in the fruit market. Here are three menus at different budget levels for Sunday dinner.

HIGH SCHOOL BUNNIES WIN OVER FALLSINGTON

(By Jack Orr)

A whirlwind finish sewed up an otherwise tight ball game for the Bristol High Bunnies as they conquered a weak five from Fallsington, 20-9, in the opening game of the year, here, last night.

Leading by only four points the Cardinal and Gray hit the cords for four double-deckers, while the minions of Coach Jim Doherty were tallying one lone foul.

This was a Lower Bucks County Conference battle and places Bristol, for the time being at least, first place. A win over Bensalem on Friday night will strengthen their hold on the top rung.

The Orange and Black drew first blood, last evening, caging a pair of fouls in nine attempts to lead the bunnies after seven minutes of play by the score of 2-0. A twin pointer by Hughes wiped this margin away and the Dougherty-coached lads went to the fore. The localities captured a 7-4 lead at half-time.

A pair of quick field goals sent the Farmers into the lead as the half opened, but Punk Zefferi threw one in from the side and the Cardinal and Gray took the lead, never to be overtaken.

Punk Zefferi was high man for the Bunnies with three two-pointers and a pair of gift throws, while Charlie Hughes and Phil Carnvale were runners-up with seven and five, respectively.

"Hero Bill" Lovett, who tried to grab the scoring honors for the visitors, did happen to cage one field goal and a pair of fouls to lead the Orange and Black.

Both clubs seemed rather poor from the 15-foot mark. The Bunnies converted a quarter of their ten attempts while the visitors were making five for fourteen.

"Bill" Mignoni caged three field goals to lead the Bristol J. V. in a 15-6 triumph over the Falls youngsters. Carm Gullato and Pete De Luca had three points each to their credit.

One man from each club was removed from the game via the personal foul route. Frankie Capello was tossed out of the fray early for the Orange and Black, while Tom Profy was removed for the Bristolians in the second half.

The gym team performance on the horse received quite an ovation. The horsemen seemed out of practice, however, and an improvement is promised in their next appearance. The usual informal dance was held after the contests.

Bensalem High will offer the opposition Friday night when the Cardinal and Gray meet Coach "Shorty" Reimer's five down the road. This is another Lower Bucks County Conference game.

Best Blocking Back

By BURNLEY

Reams of copy about Bobby Wilson, S.M.U.'s scintillating climax runner, constantly appear in the sport sheets, while little is heard of "Harry the Horse" Shuford, the burly blocking back who cleared the way for the light-footed Mustang runner during a greater part of the past season.

Shuford, who suffered an unfortunate injury late in the 1935 campaign, appears to have recovered now, which is just one more worry for Tiny Thorpe and his Stanford Rose Bowlers. If the Workhorse of the Mustangs is at his best, the Rose Bowl audience will see the best blocking back in the land taking out opposing players when the Methodists go into action against the Red Horde from Palo Alto.

Remember Ernie Pinckert, highly touted Southern California back of a few years ago? By virtue of much diligent ballyhoo, Ernie edged into the All-American spotlight, though he was strictly a blocking back and not a ball carrier.

Well, what I'm trying to say is that you'll run into plenty of shrewd football observers who insist that Shuford would be more famous than Pinckert ever was if the Methodists' unsung hero only had a reasonably good publicity system behind him.

A 200-pound giant, and a great competitor, Harry the Horse is said by many to be the most valuable man of the talented Southern Methodist aggregation.

CHIEF LITTLE WOLF TO MEET DETTON IN ARENA

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 8.—If the advance sale and request for reservations is any indication, tonight's wrestling show at the Arena will be a standing room only proposition. In bringing together Chief Little Wolf and Dean Detton for the main event in the opening show of the New Year, Matchmaker Johnny Ipp secured a match that has caught the fancy of the fans and the box-office response indicates their interest.

Detton and Little Wolf, over the best two-fall out of three, 90-minute time limit route, is the most important match that has been presented to the wrestling addicts. Both men specialize in leg torture. Little Wolf with his death-lock and Detton with his ankle crusher. The latter held forced Szabo and Kalmikoff and Jim Browning to quit, while the lethal death-lock has been the cause of the Navajo Indian rapidly climbing to the top of the contender class.

They grappled some months ago in his wind-up at the Philadelphia Arena and both men were disqualified, after a sensational battle, for fighting out in the audience. The Philadelphia promoters have since attempted to secure the rematch but Ipp snared the set for Trenton.

Supporting bouts will bring several new faces to the Arena that have been making names for themselves in other wrestling centers. Hanks Barber, clever Hebrew star from Dartmouth, will make his debut against Wildcat Ernie Stephens; Ivan Managoff, the "dark horse" of the Philly tournament, faces the popular Al Bisignano and Laverne Baxter, University of Pittsburgh athlete, meets the rowdy Dr. Len Hall.
